Project Management Institute Kerala Chapter- Loyola Student Forum Time Line

Background

As part of initiating the competence enhancement management model on the campus, the academic body at Loyola has developed a five-dimensional approach on campus. One of the key dimensional areas is programme management. One of the strongholds of Loyola in programme management used to be its unique PIMER model. It uses this framework in planning, implementing, monitoring, evaluating, and reframing all its significant activities on the campus. However, realising the significance of project management skills in enhancing the employment prospects of postgraduates in today's drastically reshaping labour market, Loyola has taken the resolution to give more attention to imparting project management-related skills to its students.

Against this background, Loyola has explored the possibilities of starting a student forum of the Project Management Institute1 on the campus.Through the network of Mr Anish Pappachan, an alumni member of the college, weapproachedthe PMI Trivandrum, Kerala Chapter (www.pmikerala.org), a local chapter of PMI located in the southern tip of India, for this purpose. After getting a positive node from the officials of the PMI Kerala Chapter, we had an online meeting on 28th May 2021 to further deliberate on the establishment of a PMI Academic forum[2i] at Loyola. In this meeting, all the HoD's, Principal, Fr. Ranjit and Mr Anish participated in the meeting representing Loyola, and all its major office bearers represented PMI. We have subsequently signed an MoU with the PMI Kerala Chapter for better academic collaboration on 29th July 2021. Fr. Ranjit George SJ is the staff coordinator, and Dr Aby Tellas is the student animator to facilitate further the activities of the student forum on the campus.

The Expected benefit of having the student forum are as follows:

- Free training on Project Management as a life skill
- Support to achieve PMI Kickoff Waterfall & Agile Badges

It continually supports establishing global standards to promote professionalism in Project Management. [2]As part of bridging the gap between industry and academia, PMI Kerala has an institutionalised Academic Forum. The mission of the PMI Kerala Academic Outreach program is to advance the practice and profession of project management by providing programs, resources, and support to student forums in major academic institutions in Kerala.As a forum, it brings together the true cross-section of the Project Management fraternity in the locality; PMI Kerala chapter enjoys the attention of Industry, Academia, NGOs & local government's attention when it comes to project management.

Anish Pappachan
Dear Hari,
Thank you for taking time to discuss and for promptly sending the proposal on setting up an PMI Kerala Chapter Academic Forum in Loyola College of Social Sciences Trivandrum. It was a real pleasure talking with you and knowing about the Programmes and Activities of the chapter and based on the initial discussion that I had with the College Management they are quite impressed by your innovative initia and being an Alumni of this college it left me with the feeling that we'd make a superb collaborative team.
In this email, I am officially looping in the Principal of Loyola College Dr. Saji P Jacob and Fr. Ranjit George who will be the SPOC for PMI from the College management side and will be providing all the required assistance for smoother collaboration.
If you need any further information please feel free to voice me out any time. Thanks once again for the consideration.
Thanks & Regards
Anish Pappachan
