- 1) Overemphasis on PPT, it's hard to understand
 - 2) Providing brief notes might be helpful
 - 3) Giving tasks to complete related to studies might be helpful

Overall everything seems good .

Nothing in particular

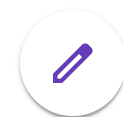

Nothing in particular

Revision classes before exams, study holidays and career guidance classes.

Giving reference
Pre - internship interactive session

It could be more useful to include examples while teaching, consider all the students and their ability of learning . Thank you

1)Kindly ensure ethical managerial practices. 2)Equal treatment for all students. 3)Improve professionalism.

Considering each students have different abilities and learning style, equal treatment for all students need to be ensured.

Avoid micro management of students.

*Effective communication

Using technology in classroom

Always tries engane all students

Promote good communication skills

Provide good evalution oppourtunties

Continously classes and tests

More field work with report writing

Class cohesion needs to be focused

Interdepartment relations maintenance

The functioning of the institution is well structured which give great emphasis not only in academics but also it gives immense importance in the individual's self development and promoting self confidence.

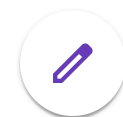

Inter department relation has to be maintained.

Daily 1 library hour has to be provided

1- should improve the time management for every activities including academic activities.

2- should improve the quality of arts- sports fest.

3-should be more aware about the student's class bunking.

Teachers teaching methods is good

Teachers are very interactive ,

I hope this message finds you well. As a current student at Loyola College of Social Sciences, I wanted to express some concerns regarding certain aspects of our college experience.

One notable area is the communication between teachers and students. While I appreciate the academic rigor, there seems to be room for improvement in fostering better communication between teachers and students.

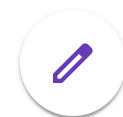

Additionally, I believe it would be beneficial to recognize the diverse ambitions of students. It appears that the educational approach may be more tailored to those pursuing a Ph.D. after post-graduation. It would be great if the institution could cater to the individual potentials and ambitions of all students.

I've noticed a potential disconnect between our college and the university, particularly in terms of representation in various categories like arts, sports, and extracurricular activities. It appears that these activities are primarily considered for NAAC accreditation only, which is understandable. However, if these activities are also intended for student interest and participation, I kindly request more proactive communication about dates and deadlines.

For example, the university sports registration deadline is approaching on 20th November, and as of today, there hasn't been a specific day selected for sports activities at Loyola. This lack of coordination has affected talented students, including a badminton state player, whose game concluded on 6th November. Similar issues have occurred in the arts category.

While academically strong, providing opportunities beyond the classroom is crucial. Implementing extracurricular programs and festivals, akin to Loyola Fest, could greatly enhance the student experience and contribute positively to the institution's reputation.

I believe addressing these concerns will not only benefit the current students but also contribute to positive word-of-mouth publicity, something Loyola is well-known for. I hope these concerns can be taken into consideration to improve our college experience

Very good experience

Add Field work,

Overall teaching and Learning is Excellent

Reduce work load , give enough time for assignment work and submission, should be liberal in internal marks, avoid over load work and stress free , provide leave atleast for 2 days after the semester exam.

Please mention what the trainee must work on on the feedback page in the reports

Seminar portions assigned to students can be discussed briefly later on by the teacher

- Mentoring meetings should be held at least once a week.
- By understanding the strengths of students and increasing their chances of developing those skills along with their studies, they will be able to manage stress.
- At least one hour a week should be set aside as part of their social work studies to talk about new things they have seen in the media, community, and in the society , as well as to discuss things to improve their competency .

No suggestions

- * make the students engaged in activity for learning experience.
- * Reduce the stress among the students to concentrate on to the acedemics.
- * Make a strong base at the beginning of the acedemics

Conduct occasional tests

Encourage more student initiatives so that their skills could be improved

Communication with teachers could be made more open and less formal.
